MacArthur to Head Big Parade

New York, April 28 — (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, after triumphing in the Philippines and in Japan, today will head New York's fourth annual Victory Day parade featuring an estimated half-million marchers.

The general will head the huge Fifth Avenue procession in an automobile from its starting point at 1 p. m. EST at 60th street to the official reviewing stand at 97th street.

There he will be presented with a medal by Charles C. Itala, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, sponsors of the parade since 1948 to contrast the victory of May day activities.

The medal for the ousted Far Eastern commander was voted by the VFW at its encampment last August in Chicago. In a statement to the press, MacArthur said he was proud to be the first American to lead the parade. President Truman then signed the general to withdraw his statement. It was the first open break between MacArthur and the administration.

The parade of paraders will be augmented by elaborate floats, about 40 bands and several dozen national groups wearing costumes of their native lands.

In line with the war veterans will be labor, civic, church, patriotic and political delegations.

Plans to have Gen. MacArthur ride in the parade were made last year. One report said the general would march in the parade with representatives of other nations, as he has done in past years.

The New York Times said protests by Protestant groups and individuals caused the change in plans, with MacArthur riding only with city officials and military aides.

MacArthur is a member of the Protestant Episcopal church. Commenting on the Times story, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, an aide to MacArthur, said:

"We know nothing about it. The general always abides by the arrangements made by the planners of any function."

Joseph Smith, commander of the New York contingent of the parade, and a member of the church, said the church was not asked to join the parade.

MacArthur's plan to lead the parade was made after he was named as the guest of honor at the annual dinner of the church in New York City.

Political Prisoner Camp Is Proposed

Washington, April 27 — (AP) — Congress is weighing a proposal to prepare four detention camps for 15,000 political prisoners in case of a general war.

James V. Bennett, federal prison director, recommended to the house appropriations committee that $75,000 be put up to prepare four abandoned military camps for use by suspected subversives in the event of war.

Bennett testified recently in support of his agency's request for funds. The committee made the testimony public today.

The recommendation came on the heels of testimony by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Assistant Attorney General James M. McInerney. They said the justice department has a line on 10,000 persons "already designated as being a threat to internal security in the event of a national emergency."

The suspects have been "thoroughly investigated," they said, and could be taken into custody under the provisions of the internal security act within a few hours.

Bennett told the committee, however, the law requires that political prisoners be kept separate from criminal convicts.

For this reason, he said, he had lined up camps not now in use which could be rehabilitated with regular prison labor and then kept in a standby condition.

He recommended it as an economy move, saying the replacement of proposed facilities would cost around $10,000,000.

Hoover told the committee that subversive activities of the Communist party "far exceed in seriousness any Nazi fifth column that we had in the country during the last war."

"It is a more fanatical group, it is a larger group, and has better direction than any Nazi group had in this country," he added.

The FBI chief said Communists in this country recently have tightened up their security against anti-subversive surveillance in a number of ways, including:

Membership cards are not issued and membership lists not maintained.

The nation is divided into 30 districts which are divided again at state, county, city and club levels with the smallest group consisting of only three or four members.

Meetings frequently are held in automobiles, on country roads, public parks or other out of the way places so attention will not be attracted.

Arrangements have been made for underground establishments where printed material can be produced for distribution.

The use of the telephone and postal service between members has been restricted; conversations must be held in "double-talk" to convey hidden meanings. A courier system has been set up.

A guard system has been established at the party's official headquarters in New York City.

A system of symbols and codes has been devised for the transfer of members from one place to another, and rank and file members are allowed to know the names and identity of only those in their individual groups.

Pennsylvania Lawmaker Dies

Washington, April 28 — (AP) — Rep. Frank Buchanan, Democrat from Pittsburgh, died last night at the naval medical center, Bethesda, Md., after an illness of four weeks.

Dr. George Calver, capital physician, said Buchanan succumbed to internal bleeding which could not be checked. On Wednesday, he had undergone what was described as a major exploratory operation. Following surgery, his condition had been reported satisfactory.

Buchanan was married, and the father of two daughters.

He became a member of the 76th congress in special election in 1939 for a seat vacated by the resignation of Samuel A. Weiss, who was a judge. He had been a member of congress since 1935, was on the House banking and currency committee, and last year headed the House lobbying investigation committee.

CLARA MAYHEW lived in a south side duplex. Sonya let me in as soon as I rang. She had abandoned the stinky gown and was wearing one of her hostess's wraps. I greeted her and after some preliminary conversation I got around to some questions. I suggested that Barney Bidault's death might have been connected somehow with Frankie Martin's death.

She let it out that Barney was interested in Frankie before he met Rose and then asked: "What about Larry Stone? He was interested in her too."

I might have connected them myself. She stamped out her cigarette and bit her lip. She said: "There's a confession floating around somewhere. Al Nanabarro must think you have it—otherwise he wouldn't have come out in the open with his boots to call on you last night."

"A confession? As to who killed Barney Bidault?"

She shot an impatient glance at me. "Don't be absurd. A confession about the death of Frankie Martin, of course. That's what Rod LaGrange was looking for when you walked in on him at the Bidault house."

I remembered the riled desk. Sonya went on: "Al Nanabarro told me that there was a confession about Frankie's death and that Barney Bidault had it on him the night of his murder."

I whistled. "And Al didn't say how he knew that?"

"No. But he was positive that Rose had the confession. That's why I rigged up the trick with the gun to save her and get her out of jail."

I scoffed: "You spin a fine yarn, Sonya. Then why did you tip off Nick Ricardo as to what good pictures he could take?"

DOROTHY DIX
Collecting Memories

An old friend of mine used to say that she had spent her life "collecting interesting and beautiful memories." Could any hobby have been more delightful and brought richer rewards than that?

How poor beside it a collection of stamps, or old china, or Japanese prints, or Jacobean silver would have been! What a comfort it must have been to her in her old age, when her sight grew too dim to see material things in turn her eyes of her mind back upon the long series of vivid and colorful pictures that hung on her memory's wall!

In a vague way we all realize that among the chief joys of life are the pleasures of memory. We know that there are no people whose society we enjoy more than those with whom we can reminisce, and that almost the strongest tie that can bind us together is having a common background of experience and being able to say: "Don't you remember?"

Yet to recall that and our secret knowledge that recalling the past is our favorite indoor recreation, few of us are wise enough to set out deliberately to collect the kind of memories that will enrich us and that we can gloat over as long as we live.

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER

Aside from the old lady I have mentioned, the only person I have ever known who did this was a woman I once met in the Orient, hobnobbing along on railroad feet that made every step a torture. I asked why she took such a trip in her condition and she replied: "To have something to remember. In my family thirty people have been paralyzed and have lain helpless in their beds for years. If my time comes, I want something to think about that will be interesting and pleasant."

And it happened to her as she said. I remember hearing her reply to the doctor's query: "How are you this morning?" by saying: "Oh, I had a beautiful night. I didn't sleep any but I spent the night in Japan. And the memory of far places and gay adventures did cheer her to the grave."

If we realized what an important part our memories played in our lives, we would try to be happier. We would not deny ourselves so many innocent pleasures. We would not do without the book we longed for, the play that would give us a chuckle every time we thought of it, the music that would sing in our minds forever, just to save a few cents. We would enjoy them now and in retrospect.

RECAPTURE THE PAST

For memory is the magic that enables us to eat our cake and have it, too, and it is foolish to deny ourselves a thing that we can feast on for a lifetime. The most wrinkled old woman in the world has treasured in her heart some memory of a pretty party dress that she had when she was 16 that had made her glow with delight every time she has thought of it.

There is no man, however rich he may have grown, who doesn't feel young again when he remembers his first dress suit that he paid for on the installment plan.

There is no such insurance against loneliness and sadness as making a good collection of memories. It is the person who knows nothing of his own life, who has no experiences in mind, who is vulnerable to depression, who can't Sonya stiffened, then she got up slowly.

"This is the second time you've accused me of double-crossing. Last night I let it go by because I didn't want to waste time trying to convince you of something I couldn't convince you of anyway. But now I'm telling you straight—I'm willing to do with these pictures."

I laughed with. "Ricardo's already told me it was you who called him!"

SONYA'S face was crimson now. But her brow was furrowed in thought. She mused aloud: "Only I could have tipped him off!"

"That's right. Only you." I let her light her cigarette. She took a couple of drags, brow still furrowed and then stamped out the cigarette with an air of finality.

"That bartender! The man who brought the bottle! I remember now! While we were waiting we decided to run through the trick once more. We were talking about it. Then the bartender with the drinks rapped on the door. I remember now that neither one of us had heard him come up!"

By the time she had finished talking, my mouth was hanging open. Nick Ricardo had taken me on a beautiful ride, painting out Sonya as the squealer, knowing I was sold on the idea anyway. He'd protected his source, all right—that lousy Pete Crummit!

"So you believe me now?" Sonya was eying me with the old cold look. The phone rang. She answered it. After she finished she told me: "Clara, calling from the Frater office. There was a burglary there last night. Everything's in an uproar, she says, with police all over the place. A night watchman almost caught the burglar but got knocked out. She can't get my clothes, so I'll have to borrow a Go light in, Hero. He's waiting for you."

She wore an odd look which I did not understand till I opened the door and beheld Star.

MacFarland Fires Back at Republicans

Washington, April 28 — (AP) — Senator MacFarland (D-Ariz.) struck back today at Republican charges that President Truman's policies can lead only to starvation or "appeasement" in the Korean war.

And Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.) denounced a Democratic charge that the Republicans have tried to "make political capital" out of President Truman's ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Pacific commander.

MacFarland, the senate Democratic leader, assailed assertions by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) that President Truman's policies would lead only to a stalemate in Korea and that Secretary of State Acheson is trying to "pussy" the situation.

"Regardless of what we think of the policies involved, nobody has ever advocated either appeasement or stalemate in Korea," MacFarland told a reporter.

"We wouldn't be fighting in Korea now if appeasement had been our aim."

Wherry, the Republican floor leader, challenged statements of William M. Boyle, Jr., the Democratic national chairman.

Boyle said in a party leaflet yesterday that there had been a "determined effort by some political leaders, newspapers and radio commentators to belittle the issues" involved in the President's firing of MacArthur.

"Some Republican leaders, in the desperate and reckless partisan attacks on the Truman administration have advocated action which would risk involving this nation in all-out war on the continent of Asia," Boyle declared.

He said President Truman "has been calmly and firmly working to assure this nation and the world the best chance of an honorable peace if the rulers of Soviet Russia are willing to accept such a peace."

Wherry charged, in return, that "except for General MacArthur, the military leaders have been forced to rubber-stamp policies which have been made by the politicians within the administration."

"Congress should determine the defense policies and it can't do that until it gets the facts at open hearings," he said.

At Milwaukee, Gen. MacArthur was quoted as saying he would regard an invitation to see President Truman as an order. President Ridge, Mo. "I was sleeping near the window and the first thing I knew there was an awful boom. The window shattered all over the room in tiny pieces. Plaster fell on us."

"I jumped out of bed and ran. I was wearing my nightgown and I didn't stop to put anything else on."

Miss Wilma Watkins, 23, of Brainerd, Mo., said, "Fire was shot along the walls and ceilings as we ran out."

Men who had recently left girls in the dormitory raced back to help. They rescued Annie Meadows, a room from under masonry. As one the town seemed to awaken and lend a hand, firemen came down from Clinton, 12, miles north, and St. Joseph, Mo., to the south. The Communist officers exchanged the fire in two hours, and then there was a lull. The fire was out. It is believed that all the

Price Cleaver Takes Swing at Meat

Washington, April 28 — (AP) — The government raised its price cleaver today for a swing at the high cost of meat. Officials said a four to five cent a pound cut in beef prices to consumers is due by August with a similar slash to follow next fall.

Actual dollars-and-cents ceilings on beef prices will be announced tonight.

One official told a reporter the orders will provide for progressive rollbacks in the price of live cattle—a new method in food price control. These rollbacks are due in three stages.

The official said the first "sizeable reduction" will be ordered immediately. This will be accomplished by setting ceilings on the amounts slaughterers must pay for cattle. It was understood that first cut would amount to five to 10 per cent.

An office of price stabilization retail prices will not be reduced on the first go-round but there may be some adjustments next month as a result of the live animal cuts.

Postponement of the first reductions at wholesale and retail levels will give feeders who fatten cattle for slaughter a chance to clear their pens of animals for which they have paid high prices, an official explained. Otherwise, he said, the feeders would face heavy and perhaps ruinous losses.

The first across-the-board cut in wholesale, retail and live cattle prices is due in mid-summer, probably around August, an official said. The second across-the-board cut is set in the orders for next fall, he added.

Assistant OPS Director Edward F. Phelps called a news conference today to outline the orders to newsmen. They will be made public tonight. Price Director Michael V. Disalle is out of the city.

It was learned a two-weeks delay in issuance of the beef price orders stemmed from a dispute between Disalle and department of agriculture officials over the proposal to cut live cattle prices. It was known that Disalle had been holding out determinedly for such cuts.

Agriculture officials were reportedly objecting on the ground that cutting cattle prices might discourage production. Livestock breeders from the west had vigorously protested.

Disalle reportedly contended

Truman has said MacArthur may see him if he asks for an appointment.

Maj. Gen. Courtney B. Whitney, per usual aide to MacArthur, also said his chief felt the blood of American boys in Korea should be kept out of the political realm.

At Dayton, Ohio, Senator Brickner (R-Ohio) told reporters the U. S. should either bomb Red bases in Manchuria or withdraw from Korea. Later, in a speech to Dayton Industrial Masonic clubs, Brickner said bombing in Manchuria would not draw Russia into the conflict.

Daylight Saving for Much of U. S.

New York, April 28 — (AP) — your community goes on daylight saving time tomorrow 2 a. m. EST, Sunday. —It's a good idea to set all clocks one hour ahead before going to bed tonight.

The hour of sleep lost by moving into fast time will be regained next Sept. 30, when standard time returns.

Mrs. C. A. Phillips gave a demonstration on putting sleeves in altered garments and how to make well button holes when the Sew Home Home Demonstration Society met at the home of Mrs. J. Ward on April 20.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Zack St. The song of the month was sung and the devotional was given by Mrs. J. E. Ward. Prayer was given by Mrs. Herman Biggers. A roll call was answered by a host of sewing hints.

During the business session a group discussed the Amateur Night program which is to be held May 4. They also planned to buy socks and panties to the next meeting for the Crippled Children's Home.

During the recreation period a surprise package was won by Mrs. Elgie Carmon. Refreshments were served by the hostess to 18 members and one visitor. The meeting adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. H. E. Nolen on May 18.

that such cuts were necessary to make possible lower consumer prices. He took the view that cattle prices could be cut without endangering the potential supply.

One source said the final decision to go ahead with the orders was made at the White House level.

Senators and Cards Are Surprising

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Washington Senators and St. Louis Cardinals are the real surprise clubs of the early 1951 season.

Bucky Harris' Senators were assigned to the second division in preseason on paper. The experts predicted they would be the "contending" Cardinals. Today both are in first place.

Washington's dazzling start on sensational pitching kept the Senators to the front of the American league pack. Six of Bucky's eight starting pitchers went the route.

One was lifted for a pinch hitter after eight innings. Gene Bearden, the only starter to be knocked out,

was sold to Detroit.

"Go the route or get out" seems to be Bucky's new deal.

Sandy Consuegra, the second half of Bucky's rumba twins, did his stuff on the merry Philadelphia A's last night with a five-hit 8-1 job. Thursday night his countryman, Connie Marrero, knuffed a one-hitter down the A's throne.

Washington historians claim the Senators are off to their best start in history with a 7-1 record. Of course, the A's were convenient for time victims in the last games. Philadelphia has scored a total of two runs. The A's have lost eight in a row.

Gil Conn led the 10-hit attack on loser Carl Scheib and two successors with a triple and two singles.

Marrero's pitching has been even better than Washington's with five complete games and two shutouts in seven starts.

Gerry Stanley shut out Chicago,

3-0, with six hits for his second route-going job against the Cubs.

He was allowed only one run in 10 innings and the entire St. Louis staff has yielded only two runs in the last 37 innings.

The New York Giants continued to squander under the fan their nine-game losing streak.

A couple of ex-Giants, Willard

Marshall and Sid Gordon, made life miserable for Leo Durocher's

Giants with home runs in Boston's 7-3 victory. Marshall's came in the sixth with two to send Boston on top for keeps. Warren

Spahn was the five-hit winner.

Gil Hodges continued his power hitting with two homers and a double in Brooklyn's 11-4 rout of the Phillies. Joe Mauer, although knocked out in the ninth, was the postgame winner.

Ralph Kiner's first homer wasn't enough to save Pittsburgh as Cincinnati grabbed a 7-3 decision.

Ewell Blackwell picked up his second win although he needed relief help from Howie Fox after six innings.

Wally Westlake, Pittsburgh's left fielder, hurt his left knee sliding into second base. He was carried off the field.

In the American league, all the western teams were idle. The only action in addition to Washington-

Philadelphia was the Boston Red

Sox 4-3 victory over the New York

Yankees.

Mel Parnell became the first

Boston pitcher to go the route, allowing nine hits including Joe DiMaggio's first homer. The Sox ripped into Vic Raschi, who shut them out opening day, for all their runs.

The 48-year-old educator's resignation as head of the Baptist institution at Arkadelphia was accepted here yesterday by the board of trustees.

No reason was given for Dr. Eu-banka's action, but a board member said he assured them it was not because the college lost its North Central association accreditation this spring.

The board announced that it had accepted Dr. Eubanka's resignation

"with expressions of regret" and said it would become effective

Sept. 1.

The Rev. Joe Shaver of Batesville, a board member, said a five-man committee would be appointed within a few days to select a successor.

Dr. Eubanka is a native of Monroe, Mo. He was educated at William Jewell college, Liberty,

Mo., and Southern Baptist theological seminary, Louisville, Ky.

He was head of the Bible and
